

TMF NAM Administrative Burden Reduction Statement

TMF Health Quality Institute's mission is to make measurable improvements in the quality and delivery of health care. In order to accomplish this mission, we believe that health care providers must have accurate and useful information, collected in real time and derived from existing workflows. TMF recognizes that many new and ever-changing quality and documentation requirements driven by health care delivery system reform efforts have not abided by these principles and have led to increased administrative burden on clinicians. As a not-for-profit health care improvement company serving broad governmental, academic and commercial markets, TMF aims to collaborate with key stakeholders to identify burden and support strategies that eliminate burden, while simultaneously enhancing clinician well-being. In addition to collaborating in the identification and rectification of burdensome regulations and processes, TMF is committed to providing learning and dissemination of best practices through technical assistance and the facilitation of learning collaboratives to share ideas, research and resources on improving the quality and patient-centeredness of high-value care.
