

A COMMUNITY BUILT ON CARE

Piedmont Medical Center

Commitment Statement on Clinician Well-Being

Piedmont Medical Center is a 288-bed full-service hospital providing healthcare services to the Rock Hill, South Carolina community for more than 30 years. Our mission is to deliver exceptional health care to every person we have the privilege to serve.

To fulfill this mission, we recognize that clinician well-being is integral to the quality and safety of patient care. As an organization, we are committed to maintaining a culture of healthcare delivery that promotes clinician well-being and exceptional patient care.

As part of our organizational strategy, we will:

- Continuously assess the well-being of our clinicians and develop evidence-based interventions to promote well-being and inspire engagement.
- Provide well-being resources and support for clinicians with the assistance of the Medical Executive Committee and the Physicians Health Committee.
- Develop and implement peer support programs to address the issues impacting physician well-being.
- Provide continuing medical education addressing clinician well-being with the support of the South Carolina Medical Association.
- Establish communication standards that drive engagement and collaboration between the medical staff and administrative team.
- Continuously evaluate and implement more efficient healthcare delivery models to promote clinician well-being and exceptional patient care.
